Methodologies developed by Stafford Mundell & Turner Limited teams are in daily use in many high risk industries, such as oil, gas and petrochemicals.

Many organisations are finding that they face a significant challenge in meeting the requirements of existing and emerging legislation in the areas of Health, Safety and Environmental Management.

Small and medium sized businesses particularly struggle to justify the costs in employing full time, qualified professionals to manage these issues and maintain the various procedures and processes required.

Consequently, the response to emerging legislative, regulatory and customer demands in the crucial areas of Health, Safety and Environmental Management are frequently unco-ordinated, leaving the business exposed to potential loss and possible prosecution!

Stafford Mundell & Turner have substantial experience in helping businesses of all types, in the development, implementation and auditing of Health & Safety management systems.

We work with you to develop robust, yet flexible systems, linking...
